Adapted from Robbins and DeCenzo, Fundamentals of Management, 5th Ed.

UNIT 1 Introduction to Management 2

CHAPTER 1 Managers and Management 5

LESSON 1 Management Basics 6
Who Managers Are and Where They Work 6
What Management Is and What Managers Do 9
LESSON 1 REVIEW 16

LESSON 2 Management in the Marketplace 17
Skills and Competencies Successful Managers Possess 17
The Importance the Marketplace Puts on Managers 19
Why Management Is Worth Studying 21
How Management Relates to Other Disciplines 22
LESSON 2 REVIEW 25
CHAPTER 2 The Historical Roots of Contemporary Management Practice 26

LESSON 1 Management Theories 28
Management Before the Modern Era 28
Classical Contributions to Modern Management 30
LESSON 1 REVIEW 36

LESSON 2 Management Approaches 37
The Human Resources Approach 37
The Quantitative Approach 42
Management Approaches Today 45
LESSON 2 REVIEW 49

CHAPTER 3 The Management Environment 50

LESSON 1 Management and the Economy 52
Management and the Changing Economy 52
The Global Marketplace 55
Management and Technology 58
LESSON 1 REVIEW 63

LESSON 2 Management and Society 64
What Society Expects From Organizations and Managers 64
Entrepreneurship 68
The Workforce and Labor 71
Issues That Contingent Workers Create for Managers 76
LESSON 2 REVIEW 79
UNIT 2 Planning 80

Adapted from Robbins and DeCenzo, Fundamentals of Management, 5th Ed.
Adapted from Robbins and Coulter, Management, 9th Ed.

CHAPTER 4 Foundations of Planning 82

LESSON 1 Planning Basics 84
What Planning Is 84
Planning in Uncertain Environments 85
Types of Plans 89
Management by Objectives 91
LESSON 1 REVIEW 97

LESSON 2 Establishing Goals and Developing Plans 98
Approaches to Establishing Goals 98
Developing Plans 104
Contemporary Issues in Planning 106
LESSON 2 REVIEW 109

Adapted from Robbins and DeCenzo, Fundamentals of Management, 5th Ed.

CHAPTER 5 Foundations of Decision Making 110

LESSON 1 The Decision Making Process 112
What Defines a Decision Problem 112
The Rational Model for Decision Making 117
Modifications of the Rational Model 119
LESSON 1 REVIEW 125

LESSON 2 Decision-Making Challenges 126
The Contingency Approach to Decision Making 126
Decision-Making Styles 130
Making Decisions in Groups 133
Culture and Decision Making 136
LESSON 2 REVIEW 137
CHAPTER 6 Managing Change, Stress, and Innovation  140

LESSON 1 Managers and Change  142
Forces for Change  142
Two Views of the Change Process  145
Employee Resistance to Change  149
LESSON 1 REVIEW  153

LESSON 2 Change and the Organization  154
Changing the Organization  154
Change and Stress  158
How to Stimulate Innovation  162
LESSON 2 REVIEW  165

LESSON 3 Managing Yourself—Stress and Time Management  166
Handling Personal Stress  166
Time Management  173
Time Management and Meetings  177
LESSON 3 REVIEW  179
CHAPTER 7  Foundations of Individual and Group Behavior  182

LESSON 1  Behavior and Personality  184
Explaining and Predicting Behavior  185
Personality Theories  191
LESSON 1 REVIEW  199

LESSON 2  Managers and Group Behavior  200
Perception  200
How People Learn  205
Foundations of Group Behavior  207
LESSON 2 REVIEW  213

CHAPTER 8  Understanding Work Teams  214

LESSON 1  Work Teams  216
The Popularity of Work Teams  217
Types of Work Teams  221
Characteristics of High-Performance Work Teams  224
LESSON 1 REVIEW  229

LESSON 2  Managing Teams  230
Turning Individuals Into Team Players  230
Contemporary Team Issues  235
LESSON 2 REVIEW  237
CHAPTER 9  Communication and Interpersonal Skills  238

LESSON 1  Communication Skills and Challenges  240

The Communication Process  241
Communication and Information Technology  252
LESSON 1 REVIEW  257

LESSON 2  Developing Interpersonal Skills  258

Listening and Feedback Skills  258
Delegation Skills  262
Managing Conflict  266
Negotiation Skills  271
Writing Evaluations  273
LESSON 2 REVIEW  277
Leadership Education 400: Principles of Management is the fourth-year Leadership Education Course for AFJROTC. The text has been completely revised and new topics have been included based on feedback received from our instructors. This course provides exposure to the fundamentals of management. This fourth-year course is taught to cadets who have normally been in the program for at least three years, have assumed leadership roles in the cadet corps, and are usually managing all aspects of the cadet corps activities. This revised course contains many leadership topics that will benefit you as well as provide you with some of the necessary skills you need to put into practice what you have learned. We are confident this course, coupled with what you have already learned during your time in AFJROTC, will provide you with the ability to lead and direct your cadet corps and equip you with the qualities you need to serve in leadership roles. In addition, the material you will learn in this course will significantly benefit you no matter what you decide to do after high school.

Throughout the course are many ethical dilemmas, case studies, and role-play activities built into the lessons that we think you will enjoy. They will allow you the opportunity to practice what you have learned by getting involved in discussions and expressing your opinions. These activities are based on “real life” experiences. Each lesson closes with “checkpoints,” which allow you to review what you have learned; there is also an additional question at the end of each lesson that gives you a chance to apply your learning and is another way to reinforce your understanding of what you have learned. A student workbook, an instructor guide with lesson plans and PowerPoint slides, and a test bank supplement the text. Chapter 10 entitled “Leadership and Trust” features profiles of some 21st Century Air Force leaders.

This text has four units. “Unit One: Introduction to Management” covers managers and management, the historical roots of contemporary management practice, and management and the environment. It covers such topics as management basics, management in the marketplace, management theories and management approaches. You will learn about management and the economy and management and society. You will also read about what society expects from organizations and managers and the workforce and labor.
“Unit Two: Planning” focuses on foundations of planning and decision making. You will learn about such topics as planning basics, including what planning is, types of plans, planning in uncertain environments, and how to establish goals and develop plans. In addition, you’ll learn about the decision-making process and the challenges of decision making. You’ll also read discussions on what defines a decision problem, the rational model for decision making, decision-making styles, making decisions in groups, and culture and decision making.

The lessons in “Unit Three: Organizing” will allow you the opportunity to learn about managing change, stress, and innovation. You will read about managers and change with discussions on forces for change, views of the change process, and employee resistance to change. There is also discussion on change and the organization, change and stress, and how to stimulate innovation. In addition, you’ll read about managing yourself, which includes topics on handling personal stress, time management, and time management and meetings.

“Unit Four: Leading” deals with foundations of individual and group behavior, understanding work teams, communication and interpersonal skills, and leadership and trust. You’ll discuss behavior and personality and managers and group behavior, and cover such topics as how to explain and predict behavior, personality theories, how people learn, and foundations of group behavior. The unit continues with a discussion about the popularity of and types of work teams and turning individuals into team players. You’ll read about communication skills and challenges, and communications and information technology. You will also read about developing interpersonal skills, with topics on listening and feedback skills, delegation and negotiation skills, and writing personnel evaluations. You’ll study leadership and trust and learn about leadership theory, leadership issues, and effective coaching and mentoring.

This book has been prepared especially for you, the cadet—to increase your knowledge and success as American citizens and members of the Air Force JROTC. Hopefully after studying this course, you will become more capable of leading in JROTC—a skill that can be very valuable to you for the rest of your life.
The subject matter in Leadership Education 400: Principles of Management was based on suggestions received from AFJROTC instructors around the world. The Jeanne M. Holm Center for Officer Accession and Citizen Development team involved in the production effort was under the direction of Dr. Charles Nath III, Director of Curriculum, at Maxwell Air Force Base, Alabama, and Mr. Roger Ledbetter, Chief of Junior ROTC Curriculum. This exceptional leadership team resulted in an outstanding product for the AFJROTC program. Special thanks go to Ms Naomi Mitchell, an instructional systems specialist for AFJROTC Curriculum. Naomi was the primary editor and reviewer for the textbook and conducted a persistent and thorough review of the material. We commend Naomi for her effort to produce the best academic materials possible for more than 850 AFJROTC units worldwide.

We would like to express our gratitude to Lawrence J. Goodrich and Ruth Walker at High Stakes Writing, LLC, for all their hard work in publishing this new book. Their production team included Philip G. Graham and Suzanne M. Perry from Perspectives, Inc.; Black Dot Group (graphic design and page layout); Paul Lester (McREL standards); and numerous personnel from Pearson Custom Publishing, including Christopher Will, Ruth Moore, Rich Gomes, Sarah Dowden, Michael Joyce, and Mary Beth Cameron.

The AFJROTC mission is to develop citizens of character dedicated to serving their nation and community. Our goal is to create materials that provide a solid foundation for producing contributing members of society able to productively fulfill their citizenship roles. We believe this course continues the precedent set with the previous curriculum materials. All the people identified above combined their efforts on this project—to form one great team providing “world class” curriculum materials to all our schools.